

FEBRUARY NEWSLETTER

Happy February! With Valentine's Day just around the corner, it's not just about showing love to our significant others, but also to those reliable companions that get us through thick and thin – our cars! If your vehicle bravely weathered the January chill and gracefully navigated through the heaps of snow, it's clear it's in tip-top shape!

In February, our Honest Wrenches team is gearing up to attend the Vision High Tech Training & Expo in Overland Park, Kansas, our key annual training event. Over 20 team members will participate, achieving over 500 hours of training collectively. This effort is our commitment to mastering the complexities of modern vehicle testing and repair, as well as enhancing our clients experience.

We're thankful for our team's dedication, as they invest time away from family and personal activities for professional growth and better client experience. Their commitment to the automotive industry and our clients is amazing.

From all of us at Honest Wrenches, we wish everyone a wonderful February and look forward to bringing our enhanced skills to serve you better.

Transitions - loss of a loved one, an empty nest, career changes, health challenges, and divorce, to name a few, can be challenging. As a life coach and a thinking partner, I can help you navigate those tough times and provide support and guidance. You already know the thoughts swirling in your mind, and perhaps you feel stuck. I can help you move beyond what you already know and the thoughts that are not serving you. Maybe you don't clearly understand your core values. If we live under the umbrella of our core values, life is sweeter and more fulfilling. Together, we can clear the fog of those swirling thoughts, that negative voice in your head, to identify goals and work to achieve them.

I am also a certified Clifton Strengths coach. Do you know your unique talents? Indeed, our talents can sometimes be our weaknesses. Still, we can turn those talents into true strengths by understanding and leveraging them. I can help you uncover your top talents and guide you in utilizing them effectively. KID'S CORNER

HOMEMADE PIZZA !

Who doesn't like a good slice? We got up to some cooking so we could try out our brand new pizza cutters!

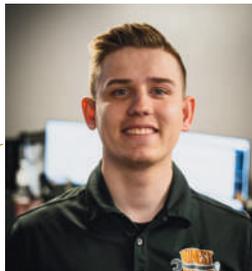

SNOW FOR DAYS!

While the snow wasn't great for us drivers, these Lil' Wrenches got some frosty fun out of it!
